Classroom Policies and Values

Inclusive Learning

People have different learning styles and needs. I have designed this course in consideration of diverse learners and will meet with you to discuss any challenges aspects of instruction or course design may present.

In accordance with the Americans with Disabilities Act and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, students with a documented disability are eligible for support services and accommodations. If a student wishes to request an accommodation, please contact the Director of Academic Support Services, Henry Conover (775) 831-1314 x7534 hconover@sierranevada.edu

Freedom to Make Choices

I do not take it personally if you turn in an assignment late or miss a class. I understand that you may have to prioritize your responsibilities, which may affect your performance in class.

I have a responsibility to adhere to the policies on the syllabus, including those regarding late work and grades, so that I maintain academic consistency and treat students fairly. To maintain consistency and recognize that extenuating circumstances exist, everyone has one opportunity to use the "Excuse Pass" found on Moodle. Details are on the pass. It is your responsibility to take advantage of this opportunity wisely.

You have choices to make regarding coming to class and submitting assignments. You are also responsible for reading the syllabus and assignment guidelines and knowing your options and the consequences for not attending a class or missing a due date. Make the best choices you can in a given situation, and graciously accept the consequences of your actions.

Learning and Risk

Learning often requires risk. Struggling with something is not a sign of failure; it is a sign that you are pushing yourself. You may feel uncomfortable with some assignments because they are unfamiliar or you are "not sure what I want." This is part of the process of learning. We learn by trial and error, not by repeating familiar tasks. You are always welcome to stop by my office during office hours to discuss an assignment with me, but I also encourage you to take a risk and attempt it first.

Self-Sufficiency

If you know how to locate information yourself, you won't have to rely on my answering a last minute email. Keep the syllabus where you can easily find it to easily locate the answers to many questions. Check the course schedule before every class. Become familiar with Moodle so you can find course material and resources. I will refer you to course handouts and other resources if you ask information that has been covered in class or is on the syllabus or handouts. I will work to keep grade information up to date on Moodle, however, you are responsible for keeping track of your running point total and keeping electronic copies of your work and contacting me if you have any questions regarding your assignments and course points.

Responsibility

Being responsible for actively reading the syllabus, handouts, and class notes will support your development as a reader. If you need to discuss assignments or course material, make an appointment to see me during my office hours. If you miss a class, ask a classmate what you missed or see me during office hours. You are responsible for using reading strategies to interpret course material. If you have a question about part of an assignment, be specific about what sentence/sentences you are having trouble understanding. You are responsible for asking a specific question, not generalizing that you "don't get it." I will work with you to develop the habits of closely reading and interpreting instructions/handouts and/or good note taking to further your academic success.

Classroom Community

To establish a strong classroom community and contribute to your mastery of learning outcomes, attendance is part of your participation grade. You may be absent twice without affecting participation. After two absences, each additional absence will lower the participation grade 10 points. Three tardies and/or missing more than 10 minutes of a class will count as an absence. There are no excused absences, so make the choice of when to miss class wisely.

I value having a positive, inclusive classroom community.

Demonstrating appropriate academic behavior such as arriving on time, being attentive during class, listening when others are talking, allowing other voices to be heard during discussions, being respectful, and contributing meaningfully to class discussions will support this community and be reflected in your participation grade.

Grading Policy

This is a writing-intensive and discussion-based course and as such, a large part of your coursework will be fulfilled through writing. In addition, you are expected to actively participate in class discussions as well as complete in-class and out of-class readings and written assignments.

Your ongoing and active participation is essential and includes: coming to class with all assigned readings completed and ready to be discussed, and engaging in class discussion and small-group work.

You will receive a participation grade worth a maximum of 100 points.

The final grade for the course is based on completion of all assignments. Assignments that are turned in past the due date will be lowered by 10 percent per class period. Any assignment turned in more than two weeks past its due date will not be accepted for any reason. All course work must be completed in order to pass the class, no exceptions. All assignments must be turned in through Moodle unless otherwise noted. I will not accept assignments via email.

Technology

Turn off, or put on vibrate ANY electronic devices, specifically cell phones. No headphones are to be worn during class unless they are used as a reasonable accommodation related to a documented disability. Do not write or read wireless or text messages, or update social media during class time.

I reserve the right to ask you to leave the room if I deem you a disruption to me or to your colleagues.

Computers are susceptible to crashing and freezing; save your work frequently, always make backup copies, and allow for extra time. Moodle outages, printer malfunctions and inoperable disks are not acceptable reasons for missing class, being tardy or for turning in late work.

School Policies

Sierra Nevada College Mission Statement:

Sierra Nevada College graduates will be educated to be scholars of and contributors to a sustainable world. Sierra Nevada College combines the liberal arts and professional preparedness through an interdisciplinary curriculum that emphasizes entrepreneurial thinking and environmental, social, economic and educational sustainability.

Core Themes: Liberal Arts, Professional Preparedness, Entrepreneurial Thinking, Sustainability

The Honor Code: The faculty of SNC believes students must be held to high standards of integrity in all aspects of college life in order to promote the educational mission of the College and to encourage respect for the rights of others.

Each student brings to the SNC community unique skills, talents, values and experiences which, when expressed within the community, contribute to the quality of the educational environment and the growth and development of the individual. Students share with members of the faculty, administration and staff the responsibility for creating and maintaining an environment conducive to learning and personal development, where actions are guided by mutual respect, integrity, responsibility and trust.

The faculty and students alike must make diligent efforts to ensure high standards are upheld by their colleagues and peers as well as themselves. Therefore faculty and students accept responsibility for maintaining these standards at Sierra Nevada College and are obligated to comply with its regulations and procedures, which they are expected to read and understand.

Consequences of Violating the Student Honor Code

SNC students and faculty share the responsibility for maintaining an environment of academic honesty. Thus, all are responsible for knowing and abiding by the SNC Faculty/Student Honor Code published in the current SNC Catalog. Faculty are responsible for presenting the Honor Code and the consequences of violating it to students at the start of their classes AND for reporting all incidences of academic dishonesty to the Provost. Students are responsible for knowing what constitutes CHEATING, PLAGIARISM and FABRICATION and for refraining from these and other forms of academic dishonesty. Violations of the Honor Code become part of a student's academic record.

1st Offense: Student receives a zero for assignment/exam and counseling with faculty on the honor code, consequences for violating the honor code, and the value of academic honesty in learning.

2nd Offense: Student fails course and receives counseling with faculty on the honor code, consequences for violating the honor code, and the value of academic honesty in learning.

3rd Offense: Student is expelled.

The SNC Email System

The SNC email system is the official communication vehicle among students, faculty members and administrative staff and is designed to protect the confidentiality of student information as required by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 Act (FERPA). Students should check their college email accounts daily during the school year.

Students have a right to forward their SNC e-mail to another e-mail account (for example, @hotmail or @gmail). However, confidentiality of student information protected by FERPA cannot be guaranteed for SNC e-mail forwarded to an outside vendor. Having email redirected does not absolve a student from the responsibilities associated with official communication sent to his or her SNC email account.
